

Dream Vacations with National Geographic

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC UNIQUE LODGES OF THE WORLD

Ever wanted to step into the pages of beautiful photos you see in National Geographic or National Geographic Traveler? Here's a new opportunity to make that a reality. Skift broke the news that National Geographic Society is launching a collection of boutique hotels called National Geographic Unique Lodges of the World. Properties chosen for this collection are not only known for their excellence, but also for their environmental sustainability and their support of local cultures. It's an exclusive group: Only 24 properties are included in this first collection, including the Grootbos Private Nature Reserve in South Africa, pictured here. Click through for a tantalizing look at these getaways.

MSN Travel: Read Skift's story about National Geographic's new hotel group

© Inkaterra Machu Picchu Pueblo Hotel/National Geographic Unique Lodges of the World

INKATERRA MACHU PICCHU PUEBLO HOTEL, PERU

Casitas nestle into the cloud forest at Inkaterra. Discover the forest's orchids and butterflies with a guide, take a hike to nearby hot spring or use the hotel as a base for a trip to the Machu Picchu Historical Sanctuary.

Link to article: <http://www.msn.com/en-us/travel/other/national-geographic-launches-a-unique-lodges-collection/ss-BBhARp9#image=40>