Inkaterra's Reserva Amazonica

Peru

While many people head to the beach for an escape, an adventurous few retreat to Peru's thick rainforest. Inkaterra's Reserva Amazonica integrates luxury accommodations with lush surroundings. While all of the rooms showcase a different aspect of the Amazon, the Canopy Tree House yields a spectacular and unusual vantage point. While staying here, you can take quarter, half, and full-day excursions to the nearby wetlands, Lake Sandoval, Gamitana Creek, and more. These trips are made even better with the knowledge that you'll return to plush rooms and exceptional service at the end of the day. (It's camping without roughing it.) To reach the lodge, you have your choice between a 45-minute boat trip from Puerto Maldonado or a hopper plane from Lima or Cusco.
