

What's New in Peru

✕ The new-build, 207-room Hilton Lima Miraflores will open by the end of 2012, debuting the first Hilton Hotels & Resorts brand in Peru. Among its accommodations there will be 45 executive rooms and nine suites; other facilities include a full-service restaurant, lobby bar, and sky terrace with heated outdoor pool, spa and fitness center. (hilton.com)

✕ Hotel Barranco is scheduled to open in January 2013 in Lima's seaside bohemian neighborhood of Barranco. Operated by the luxury travel company, The Andean Experience, the deluxe, 17-suite boutique hotel occupies the restored premises of a 1914 belle époque villa and includes a private spa and a signature restaurant by Rafael Osterling, one of Peru's best-known chefs. (andean-experience.com)

✕ In Cusco, following a painstaking 3-year restoration and rebuild, Orient-Express' Palacio Nazarenas emerged this spring as a sophisticated all-suite property. Once a 16th century palace and convent, now guests find 55 suites appointed with antiques and hand-crafted furnishings, marble baths with heated floors, heated outdoor pool, locavore restaurant, and handicraft boutique. Room prices include breakfast and 24-hour butler service. (palacionazarenas.com)

✕ The latest addition to Peru's inventory of rainforest accommodations is Hacienda Concepcion, a new concept from the luxury hotel chain Inkaterra that offers an all-inclusive stay at a budget-friendly price point. Located on 2,000 acres about a 20-minute boat ride down-river from Puerto Maldonado, the Hacienda features a main lodge with eight twin rooms, dining room and social spaces, as well as seven individual cabanas. (byinkaterra.com)

